

TRANSITION ROLE PLAYS

Situation #1:

You are at home alone in the afternoon and having major pain. This is an emergency. What do you do?

Situation #2:

You need to get to your doctor's appointment. You don't have a car and you are feeling too weak to take public transportation. How do you get there?

Situation #3:

You are meeting a new doctor for the first time alone, without your family. The doctor asks you to tell him/her about yourself, your chronic illness, your medical history, and the current medications you are taking. Let's switch roles. What does the doctor ask? Now, how do you respond?

Situation #4:

You are having some symptoms that could be related to your chronic illness, although you are not sure. What do you do next?

Situation #5:

You just met with your doctor. You are unclear about something that was discussed during your visit and this is upsetting you. What should you do?

Developed by Children's Hospital, Boston, as part of the Massachusetts Initiative for Youth with Disabilities (MIYD), a Healthy and Ready to Work project of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. MIYD is supported in part by project # H01MC00006 from the Maternal and Child Health Bureau (Title V, Social Security Act), Health Resources and Services Administration, Department of Health and Human Services.

